SAINT PAUL, MN: We have known for a long time that the arts and culture are important to the City of Winona. They enhance our quality of life, bring diverse communities together, and make our area a magnet for jobs and businesses. A new study was released today by the City of Winona and Minnesota Citizens for the Arts that shows that, in addition to contributing to our state’s excellent quality of life, the nonprofit arts and culture sector is also a substantial industry in the City of Winona, generating nearly $5 million in total economic impact annually.

As the most comprehensive report ever done of the creative sector, Creative Minnesota is a new effort to fill the gaps in available information about Minnesota’s cultural field and to improve our understanding of its importance to our quality of life and economy. Today’s report release is the second wave of a concentrated effort to collect and report data on the creative sector every two years for analysis, education and advocacy. All of the research developed by the Creative Minnesota team will be available at creativemn.org.

Sixteen Winona organizations are part of the study:

- Bluff Country Studio Art Tour
- City of Winona arts & culture programs
- Frozen River Film Festival
- Great River Shakespeare Festival
- Home and Community Options, Inc.
- Minnesota Conservatory for the Arts
- Minnesota Marine Art Museum
- Performance Center at St Mary’s Univ. of MN
- Project FINE
- SEED Performance Art
- Theatre du Mississippi
- Winona Area Barbershoppers
- Winona Brass Band
- Winona County Historical Society
- Winona Symphony Orchestra Associatio
- Winona-Dakota Unity Alliance

Creative Minnesota: The Impact and Health of the Nonprofit Arts and Culture Sector found that sixteen nonprofit arts and culture organizations in Winona support the equivalent of 135 full time jobs in the city, and 118,920 people attend nonprofit arts and cultural events annually.

Sheila Smith, Executive Director of Minnesota Citizens for the Arts, said “Clearly Winona’s arts and culture organizations are bringing people to town who wouldn’t otherwise be there to spend their money in local businesses. There is something special going on in Winona.”
“Part of the joy of working in the performing arts are the conversations in the lobby. We hear from folks who have moved to Winona because of the Festival, who have decided to stay and retire in Winona because of what is now here for them, and many who have traveled from all over the country (and sometimes other countries) planning their summer around our schedule,” said Lee Gundersheimer, Managing Director for the Great River Shakespeare Festival. “An entire generation has now grown up taking classes and attending the Festival, and all of these friends, young and old, consider GRSF and the Arts integral to the fabric of our community.”

Creative Minnesota was developed by a collaborative of arts and culture funders in partnership with Minnesota Citizens for the Arts (MCA). The report leverages new in-depth research made possible because of Minnesota’s participation in the Cultural Data Project (culturaldata.org). Creative Minnesota is a snapshot of the health and impact of nonprofit arts and culture organizations in 2013 and looks at their spending and their audiences as well as other indicators.

“We hope that arts advocates, legislators, local government officials and arts and cultural organizations will use this report to find new ways to improve their lives and economies with arts and culture,” said Sheila Smith.

The Creative Minnesota team includes Minnesota Citizens for the Arts, The McKnight Foundation, the Minnesota State Arts Board, the Forum of Regional Arts Councils of Minnesota, Target, Bush Foundation, Mardag Foundation, and Jerome Foundation, with in-kind support from the Minnesota Historical Society and others.

Kate Wolford, President of The McKnight Foundation said, “Like other entrepreneurs and small business owners, artists add significant economic and creative value across the entire state. Backed by hard data, Creative Minnesota reveals important truths about how our state’s artists and arts and culture organizations are making dynamic contributions to our economic vitality and to our high quality of life.”

Notes on the Cultural Data Project and other Sources:
This research was made possible by the state’s participation in the Cultural Data Project, www.culturaldata.org/ which is a web-based data system utilized by arts and culture grant makers in thirteen states and the District of Columbia. Many public and private grant makers in Minnesota require some or all of their arts and culture grantees to submit data to the CDP. Most CDP data is financial, though it includes information about services provided, numbers of participants, staffing and volunteers as well. CDP data in this report is from 298 arts nonprofits as they reported it to the CDP.

The CDP data was supplemented by the responses of 396 arts and culture nonprofits to a brief online financial survey and by 575 organization’s grantee data provided by the Minnesota State Arts Board, Regional Arts Councils and the Minnesota Historical Society. In addition, 3410 audience members completed a survey at arts and culture events around the state. Additional information came from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Tourism Marketing Council, Explore Minnesota, the Minnesota Department of Education and others.

Americans for the Arts (AFTA) was commissioned to calculate the economic impact research portion of this report as part of Arts & Economic Prosperity® IV: The Economic Impact of Nonprofit Arts and Culture Organizations and Their Audiences in the State of Minnesota, Americans for the Arts, 2014 and the associated eleven regional Minnesota studies, which can be downloaded at creativemn.org. Additional data analysis was done by CliftonLarsonAllen using the data sources cited above.

The Legacy Amendment
The Legacy Amendment was passed by a statewide vote of the people of Minnesota in 2008 to dedicate a portion of the state’s sales tax to create four new funds for 1. land conservation, 2. water conservation, 3. parks and trails, and 4. arts and culture. The legislature appropriates the dollars from the Legacy Arts and Culture Fund to the Minnesota State Arts Board, Regional Arts Councils, Minnesota Historical Society and other entities to provide access to the arts and culture for all Minnesotans.
