New Creative Minnesota 2017 Study of the City of Hutchinson Reveals Large Impact of the Arts on Local Economy

SAINT PAUL, MN: Creative Minnesota, Minnesota Citizens for the Arts and Hutchinson Center for the Arts released a new study today indicating that the arts have a large impact on the City of Hutchinson.

“Nonprofit arts and culture organizations contribute to the vibrancy of Minnesota’s economy and quality of life and make our state a magnet for jobs and businesses. Now we can quantify that in Hutchinson.” said Sheila Smith, Executive Director of Minnesota Citizens for the Arts. “In addition to providing life changing experiences, educational opportunities and accessibility to audiences of all ages in their stages and museums, arts and culture organizations are important employers and economic engines.”

“The arts are a part of life which give us enjoyment, beauty, and make our homes and community, places of peace, beauty and learning. But the arts also bring our community economic value,” said Tom Wirt, Member of Board of Hutchinson Center for the Arts. “As a community where the City and the people support the arts, we want the community that makes the arts happen to also see the “hard value” we receive from giving this support, both in time and effort (volunteering) and financially.”

As the most comprehensive report ever done of the state’s creative sector, Creative Minnesota 2017 fills in the gaps of available information about Minnesota’s cultural field and seeks to improve our understanding of its importance to our quality of life and economy. Creative Minnesota 2017 quantifies the impact and needs of Minnesota’s artists and creative workers and nonprofit arts and culture organizations. The report includes both new, original... research and analysis of data created by others.

HUTCHINSON HIGHLIGHTS:

NONPROFIT ARTS AND CULTURE ORGANIZATIONS

- Hutchinson’s nonprofit arts and cultural organizations draw almost 62,000 attendees annually - impressive for a city of Hutchinson's size. This attendance includes over 12,000 K-12 students through the arts annually.

- The economic impact of attendee spending is $1.2 million, while Hutchinson’s arts and cultural organizations contribute another $1 million in economic impact for a combined $2.2 million in impact each year.

ARTISTS AND CREATIVE WORKERS

- McLeod County has a higher density of artists and creative workers in its workforce than would be expected. Of the 15 counties in this study, McLeod is ranked 8th in population size, but ranks 2nd in creative worker density at 39 creative jobs per 1,000 overall jobs.

- Further, spending by artists and creative workers in McLeod County surpasses $1.6 million in annual economic impact.

Note that the study areas in this report for nonprofit arts organizations and audiences (Hutchinson) and for artists and creative workers (McLeod County) are different.

"The arts have deep roots in our communities, linking generations, cultures and economies, said Diana Anderson, President and CEO of the Southwest Initiative Foundation. “The arts add vibrancy and substance to our daily lives, serving as a vehicle to drive individual expression, community exploration and a spirit of entrepreneurship. I’ve seen arts organizations and artists step up as leaders who strive for inclusion and innovation in my hometown of Hutchinson, and throughout our southwest Minnesota region.”

"The arts are alive and well in Hutchinson, said Kay Johnson, Staff Writer at the Hutchinson Leader. “Whether you’re interested in creating art, appearing in a stage production, or singing in a community chorus, you can do it in town. Prefer to be an art booster? You can attend an exhibit, watch a play or support a concert without leaving the city limits. Not many towns of 14,000 offer the art options available in Hutchinson. We have a thriving art center, a growing public art collection and people willing to step up to create new arts-related opportunities. This study gives us another view of the impact of the Arts…the economic return to the community.”

• The economic impact of just nonprofit arts and culture audiences in this region totaled $1.2 Million. This spending at local businesses is above and separate from the cost of the ticket to the event, and includes spending in restaurants, gas stations, and other local businesses by attendees on the way to and on the way home from an event. The average spent by an attendee is $19.77, and is money that would not have been spent in the community unless the event had occurred. Nonlocals spend even more, bringing dollars to the community that would otherwise not be there.

• Finally, the economic impact of nonprofit arts and culture organizations in Hutchinson includes $215,450 in state and local government revenues and supports 58 FTE jobs which generate $1.3 million in resident household income annually.

OTHER STATEWIDE HIGHLIGHTS:

STATEWIDE ECONOMIC IMPACT OF NONPROFIT ARTS AND CULTURE SECTOR:

Statewide, the study found that the combined economic impact of nonprofit arts organizations, their audiences and artists and creative workers is over $2 billion annually. This includes $819 million spent by nonprofit arts organizations, $564 million spent by audiences, and the direct spending of artists in their communities, on things such as art supplies and studio rental, of $644 million.

Just looking at the economic impact of nonprofit arts and culture organizations, Minnesota has double the arts economy of Wisconsin even though we have nearly the same population, ten and a half times the arts economy of Kansas and twelve and a half times the arts economy of South Dakota.

Statewide, state and local government revenue from the arts sector exceeded $222 million, including income and sales taxes.

STATEWIDE IMPACT AND DEMOGRAPHICS OF ARTISTS AND CREATIVE WORKERS:

Creative Minnesota 2017 found that there are over 104,000 artists and creative workers in Minnesota whose spending in the state totals $644 million annually.

24 percent of self-identified artists in Minnesota are employed full-time as artists, 42 percent are employed part-time, and the rest, 34 percent, are retired, hobbyists or students.
STRONGEST NEEDS FOR ALL MINNESOTA ARTISTS:

- SPACE TO WORK: Artists desire spaces and tools of their own to do their work – but not in solitude.
- CONNECT: Artists have strong interest in opportunities to form connections and serve communities.
- LEARN: Artists embrace and are seeking more learning experiences, experienced artists would like to pass on their skills, younger artists are looking for mentors.
- EARN: Artists remain ambitious about developing paying audiences and generating income from their work, but their identities as artists and the non-monetary value they derive from their practice are strong regardless of earnings.
- AUDIENCE: Artists desire to reach wider audiences and markets.

STATEWIDE IMPACT AND NUMBER OF NONPROFIT ARTS AND CULTURE ORGANIZATIONS:

- 1601 nonprofit arts and culture organizations in Minnesota served 22 million attendees at arts and cultural events in 2014.

- These organizations serve 3.8 million K-12 students, hosting 29,318 school group visits each year. There are approximately 900,000 K-12 students in Minnesota, so on average every student is participating four times a year in arts and culture activities provided by these nonprofits.

- The economic impact of just the participating organizations and their audiences totaled $1.4 billion, an increase of $185 million since our previous study in 2015. This is primarily due to an additional 332 participating organizations, but also includes a 1.5 percent increase in impact by the organizations participating in both studies.

The legislature appropriates the dollars from the Legacy Arts and Culture Fund to the Minnesota State Arts Board, Regional Arts Councils, Minnesota Historical Society and other entities to provide access to the arts and culture for all Minnesotans.
